

Preface

The Office of History, Headquarters, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, is assigned the task of preserving and documenting the activities of the Corps. To help accomplish this mission, the office collects, maintains, and inventories documents relating to Corps history.

Along with official records of the Corps and personal papers of officials of the Corps, the office accepts personal papers of distinguished people who have influenced the development of Corps policies and programs. The accession of the Arthur Maass Papers and the publication of this guide are important steps in this expanding program.

The Arthur Maass Papers are located in the Corps of Engineers Archives, ATTN: CEHO-S-H, Kingman Building, Fort Belvoir, Virginia 22060-5577. Interested researchers should contact the office for more information.

The compiler would like to acknowledge the efforts of two historians in the Office of History: Dr. Martin A. Reuss, who was instrumental in procuring the Arthur Maass Papers, and Dr. Martin K. Gordon, who provided technical expertise and counsel during the processing effort. Thanks also go to Lisa K. Wagner, who verified and updated register entries; Christine O. Hardyman, Kristin A. Peterson, and Beryl J. Johnson, who established the format for the register; and Mary F. Loughlin and Kathleen Richardson, who edited and proofed it.
